Q -- If I invest money in the Path To Publishing "Act Like an Author, Think Like a Business" 2019 Conference, will I make money in return?

A -- Path To Publishing will chauffeur authors to their final destination. We'll equip you with all the gear you need for the long haul. Once we arrive, when you get out of the car, what happens next is completely up to you. Are you just going to stand there with all the information, resources, professional advice, tips, and options we've armed you with? Or are you going to hit the ground running toward your literary destiny?

Even though others may play a role—big or small—in helping you reach your destination, you determine whether the entire journey was in vain. Chasing dreams takes faith. Reaching dreams takes money and hard work. So, the answer to the posed question would be the same answer to the question you must pose to yourself: Am I willing to do all the necessary hard work it will take to make money as an author, to make a living as a writer, to build a book business, or to create multiple streams of income to sustain my literary business?

If your answer is yes, then let's begin building that literary empire. Register for the conference today!

Q -- I want to attend the "Act Like an Author, Think Like a Business" 2019 Conference, but I don't have the money. Will you be offering any discounts?

A -- This conference is already under-priced. For under $1,000 you will be taught how to build your book, build your book business, and create multiple streams of income to sustain your book business.

There is a publishing conference taking place this summer that cost almost $6,000, and the registration is near capacity. They won't be teaching or providing half the curriculum the "Act Like an Author, Think Like a Business" 2019 Conference will. Yet serious authors who are serious about their craft and book business aren't batting an eye prior to registering.

As entrepreneurs, we have to change our thinking from "I don't have the money to grow my business" to "I need to get the money to grow my business."

Time or money should never be an excuse as to why you can't succeed at something. Ever heard the saying "Where there is a will there's a way"?

In life, we're only human, so we often find the time and the money for the things we want, but in 2019, let's find the time and the money for the things we need.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Q -- The Path To Publishing "Act Like an Author, Think Like a Business" 2019 Conference is covering some stuff I already know about or have done. Should I still register?

A -- Even if you've already published a book or have had several books published by a publisher, we guarantee there are some steps you missed along the process; steps that could be costing you money, or keeping you from making money. But even so, the conference is divided into three days covering three major areas of how to publish like a pro and become a successful author.

You do not have to register for all three days. Simply register for the days you feel will address your immediate needs as to where you currently are on your literary journey.

Q -- Should I attend the "Act Like an Author, Think Like a Business 2019 Conference" even though my book won't be ready?

A -- The answer to that question is easy. You absolutely should attend the conference even though your book isn't ready. The best thing you can do as an author is to not wait for your book to get ready, but to get ready for your book!

Your book is your business and your job is being an author. But being an author goes beyond writing, publishing, and selling a book.

Learn your job description and be ready to execute and excel toward literary excellence and success by attending the "Act Like an Author, Think Like a Business" 2019 Conference taking place September 19-21 in the STILL fabulous Las Vegas, Nevada.
